

Review on Emerging anthropogenic influence on Australian multi-year droughts with potential for historically unprecedented megadroughts

I thank the authors for carefully addressing my comments and those provided by the other referee. I think the manuscript has improved, the methodology is better explained and the scientific findings are more clearly communicated. I do not have any further comments or suggestions. From my side, it is suitable for publication.