

Dear editorial team,

We've uploaded the final version of our manuscript including all source files. We have removed all highlighting marking the changes of the revised version. Otherwise, we have not applied any changes.

The email announcing the decision has indicated the necessity of some "technical changes" and referred to the editor's report. We have however not found any further comments.

If we missed something we'll of course quickly edit the files.

Best regards,

Thomas Richter