The reviewer is of the opinion that the paper reads much better than the first version. Since almost all my suggestions were addressed, I have no further objections. I have also examined the other reviewer's comments, and I was content with the authors' responses.