

Just one more thing, on Fig. 5: Do the plotted points still represent the average daily value in each month? That's fine, of course, but please explain that in the caption.

We thank the editor for taking the time to checking our revisions and noting the ambiguity in Figure 5. We have clarified in the caption that each point corresponds to a single year and site and represents the average daily value for the growing season.