

The authors were very thorough in addressing reviewer comments, and the result is a greatly improved manuscript that will be of interest to Biogeosciences readers. The study was well founded and carefully executed, and the improved contextualization of the simulation results are a welcome addition. This is a solid paper that makes a meaningful contribution to the field.