

Review of: "Satellite-based estimation of contrail cirrus cloud radiative forcing derived through a Rapid Contrail-RF Estimation Approach" by Dimitropoulou et al.

The authors have provided in-depth, scientific and satisfactory replies to all of my questions and remarks after the first round of reviews and have changed and adapted their manuscript according to the suggestions and technical corrections.

My evaluation of the scientific significance of the manuscript, its relevance to the journal as well as its added value remain unchanged from the first round of reviews. Considering all the above in my opinion the manuscript can be accepted for publication as is.