

Response to editor comments

1. For the next revision, please include also comments from the referees into the "Author`s Response" document. More detailed information please see: <https://www.geoscientific-model-development.net/submission.html#reviewfiles>

Answer: this has been done.

2. Regarding the figures containing maps: Figures based on external map providers must include complete and visible source attribution and, where applicable, copyright information. Please ensure that any attribution shown within the figure is also repeated in the figure caption. – For proprietary map services (e.g. Google Maps, Esri), the full copyright and provider credits must be included. – For OpenStreetMap, attribution to “OpenStreetMap contributors” must be given, including a reference to <https://www.openstreetmap.org/copyright>. – For public-domain data sources (e.g. NOAA, USGS), no copyright statement is required; however, the data source must be clearly acknowledged in the caption. If embedded attributions are lost during figure processing, attribution should be repeated in the caption or placed close to the figure. For more information please see:

https://publications.copernicus.org/for\_authors/manuscript\_preparation.html#mapsaerials

Answer: This also has been done hopefully correctly.